A Reminder About Fraudulent Activity:

Please remain vigilant and keep your information safe, as fraudsters may take advantage of the current environment to prey on concerned people. Remember: never give personal information over the phone or email. If it's needed for something you were expecting, simply ask to call the person back at an official phone number you can verify. If the company is legitimate, they will completely understand. This is safety protocol in banking.

Phone calls or emails soliciting personal information are often pushy and create a sense of urgency. Commercial Bank & Trust will never send you an email asking for personal or account information (including PIN numbers or online banking passwords). We also will never send you an email asking you to download a file or software. If you are ever unsure or have any questions, contact your local branch during business hours.

Commercial Bank & Trust will continue monitoring the situation, relying on our trusted resources, including the CDC, banking regulators, and the Pennsylvania Department of Health – and will base our business decisions on their recommendations and directives. Ultimately, we want to reassure our customers, employees and community members that we will continue to provide the financial services that you've come to know and trust while adjusting to the impact of the coronavirus.
